

Economic Development June 2007

We continue meeting with the NRP group regarding the purchase of the Cameron tract. They will go to the state on July 30 who will make the decision on their funding. Whatever happens, we will either continue to help NRP or I will continue working with Gerald Shanks and the Cameron's to find someone else to purchase the property.

Greg and I are supposed to meet with the consultant who is doing the transportation study for southern Brazoria County next week about his findings. As you may remember, this was the group that was looking into whether or not any type of bus service was feasible for our area. We will update you as we get more information.

Our first July Jubilee was unfortunately cancelled due to the rainy weather. Hopefully by next year we can do some bigger and better things because we will have more time to plan! Thanks so much to all the volunteers that had volunteered to help make this a great day of family fun.

I continue to receive lots of inquiries regarding property and new developments in and around Angleton. I understand that several of our local realtors have also seen an increase in larger "investment/development" firms interested in Angleton.

As always, let me know if you have any questions.
