

Economic Development December 2007

With the holidays going on, December was a slow month for new interests. We did have several meetings with one particular investment group that continues to explore the Angleton area. I believe that January will bring lots of interest and activities both from developers we have been working with and a few new ones.

The hotels continue to move very slowly with LaQuinta and Scottish Inn both having received permits. We have not seen any further plans on the rumors of the third hotel on Hwy 35 near Cedar.

As always, let me know if you have any questions.
