Search Warrant Yields Significant Drugs & Property

Stolen firearms from several burglaries, traded for drugs by addicts, recovered during the search warrant

During the morning hours of November 1, 2013, a home on Short State Route 48 was burglarized. Entry was made into the home by crawling through a doggy door. Several weeks later a suspect was identified, confessed, and was jailed. The suspect, a heroin addict, provided officers with the location where he traded the stolen property in exchange for heroin.

Officer's West, Moermond, Sergeant Robinson, and members of the Williamsburg Police Department executed a search warrant at the Williamsburg home identified by the suspect. Multiple stolen firearms, stolen tools, a large amount of heroin and drug paraphernalia were found in the home. The Williamsburg homeowner was linked to buying and trading stolen goods for heroin from multiple addicts. Some of the firearms were linked to Brown County burglaries. The investigation continues.

Thefts from Vehicles

In October 2013, Captain Rose initiated an investigation of a loosely organized theft ring involving six adult suspects who have been linked together "Car Hopping," slang that they used for stealing from unlocked vehicles. These individuals did not all work together at one time, rather, there were various connections that developed over time.

These offenses occurred between July-October 2013, always overnight, several nights per week, in pre-planned targeted neighborhoods in Goshen, Union, Pierce, and Anderson Townships. It is estimated among the suspects that hundreds of cars were checked to determine if they were unlocked and upwards of one-hundred were found unlocked and stolen from. Tens of thousands in merchandise was stolen including credit cards, golf bags, Ipads, sunglasses, CD's, chargers, school bags, wallets, a pistol, two bicycles, and loose change.

The suspects used the credit cards at different Walmart's to purchase primarily pre-paid debit cards and electronics including, Ipads, cell phones, and Xbox video game systems that they would sell on Craigslist as 'brand-new, in the box.'

Alcohol, heroin, and cocaine are contributing factors with some of the suspects. Others described 'Car Hopping' as a treasure hunt that was exciting. The philosophy as expressed by one suspect was, 'If they leave their car unlocked, it's like leaving their valuables in the yard for anyone to take.'

Stolen items were recovered during the execution of a search warrant and other items were handed over by the suspects.

The six suspects have been directly linked to 47 victims. A total of more than $40,000 in personal property and $10,000 in credit card transactions were stolen from these 47 victims. Approximately $17,000 of that stolen property has been recovered during the investigation.
