Private Firm Issues Erroneous Boil Order Notification to Some Skokie Homes

The Village of Skokie has received several inquiries on Tuesday, August 30, 2011, from residents who received automated phone messages stating that a water boil order is in effect. Skokie's water is not under a boil order and is safe for consumption. There is no boil order in any area of Skokie, and these messages are being erroneously delivered by a company that is designed to notify property association members of community alerts. These phone messages are not intended for any Skokie home, condominium, apartment or business and should be disregarded.
